

Nemo Perera to Chair 5th Annual IQPC Life Settlements and Longevity Summit

IQPC's 5th Annual Life Settlements and Longevity Summit will be held on April 28 - 29, 2011 at the Sentry Conference Center in New York, NY. Nemo Perera, CEO of Griffin Risk Capital Partners, will be the chairperson for the Summit, providing opening and closing remarks for the 5th installment in IQPC's successful New York Life Settlements series, unique for its investor-driven content and focus on life and longevity based investing opportunities. This established biannual event will once again bring together key players in the life settlements and longevity investment market, drawing seasoned players and new market entrants alike. The 2011 program has been carefully researched with industry experts to bring you timely, crucial all-new content. This event will discuss what the future holds for this asset class by discussing new developments in regulation and taxation, longevity derivatives hybrid models and other new investment trends, the emergence of new market players, investor perspectives on managing downside risk, and more.

Mr. Perera will also be a panel speaker on April 29th for the 10.45am discussion titled "The New Wave Of Private Equity: Private Equity Investor Insights On Identifying High-Yield Opportunities In Life Settlements" which will discuss assessing opportunities in distressed portfolios being divested by banking institutions, pricing and valuing distressed life settlement assets, packaging and structuring life settlement assets into buy-and-hold investments, ensuring realistic investor expectations on returns, building an effective exit strategy and the future role of private equity in life settlement investing. Scott Birnbaum, Operating Partner of Kohlberg & Company; Scott B. Rose, Principal, Founder and Portfolio Manager of Barrett Advisors; and Thomas S. Wickwire, Managing Director of The Carlyle Group will also participate on the panel.
